Miss Anna Rowe has returned from a vacation trip to her old home in Sonora. She also visited San Francicso and Oakland.

Miss Irene Hildreth returned last week from a visit to relatives and friends in the metropolis. She reports a pleasant visit.

Mrs. Nellie Gibson has returned from an extended visit to friends in Sonoma county. She was quite sick for a time while away.

Miss Jessie Standley, one of the faculty of the San Francisco normal school, is here on a mid-term vacation and is visiting relatives.

Fred Windinx, the popular Fort Bragg plumber, came in from Orr's Tuesday and departed for his home much improved in health.

Louis Gonsalves is here this week from the coast on an electioneering trip. He is the Republican candidate for district attorney.

J. E. Thornton was down from Potter valley the first of the week on a business trip. He reports hop picking now finished in the valley.

Maurice Hirsch and wife returned from Sacramento last Friday where they had been attending the Democratic state convention during that week.

Dr. Rob Thomas and J. G. Thomas left this week on a hunting trip to San Hedrin. Orders for "jerky" left at this office will be attended to promptly.

The Misses Madge Ellis and Perle Taylor, the popular milliners of this city, paid a visit to Lakeport last Saturday and enjoyed a pleasant outing in our neighboring county.

Supervisor Lawson arrived in town Monday in time to attend to his duties on the board of supervisors. He had just returned from the Democratic state convention at Sacramento.

Miss Lizzie Price and Miss Mary Chalmers have returned from an extended visit to Oakland. Miss Price resumed her duties as one of the teachers in the grammar school last Monday.

Dr. Susan Orpha Harris came up from the metopolis last Saturday and remained over until Monday visiting relatives and friends. The doctor now has a good practice in the city and has been elected to a chair in the Osteopathic college.

J. S. Ornbaun and son Casper were in town this week from Ornbaun valley on business. Casper is a recent graduate of the Ann Arbor law school and will in all probability stump the county for Theodore Bell.

Grover McGimsey came over from Boonville this week and went to Healdsburg to enter the high school there. The Ukiah high school loses a good athlete and Healdsburg makes a good gain.

George A. Knight, the famous Republican orator, went up to his Laytonville ranch last week where he will remain for several weeks looking after business interests and taking a much needed rest from the turmoil of politics.

Ed R. Wright, the popular candidate for tax collector, has returned from a visit to a few of the precincts of the county and is much pleased with the outlook for his election this fall. If a good record counts for anything he will certainly be elected by an overwhelming majority.

J. L. McGimsey, a prominent rancher of Boonville, was at the county seat last week on business. Joe thinks that the entire Democatic ticket will be elected this fall judging from the sentiment in the first district.

W. T. Saxon, the popular Democatic nominee for supervisor of the third district, has returned from a business visit to the city and will resume his campaign for office. Reports from the district are to the effect that Saxon will have a walk over.

FIRE AGAIN IN BUSINESS SECTION

About 9 o'clock Sunday evening fire was discovered in the rear of Jack's chop house and soon the entire building was on fire, but the firemen were on hand promptly and soon had the fire checked. For awhile it looked as though half of the block would go as it was hard to get at the flames. Fire also got into the rear of the telephone office and burned up several hundred dollars worth of wire and fixtures. Everything in the chop house was practically ruined, the loss being estimated at about $800. The buildings belonged to J. Heger and his loss is in the neighborhood of $1000. Swensen's bakery was badly scorched but Pete was at work Monday afternoon all right. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is presumed to have started from a cigar stump.

CARL PURDY SECURES SOME NEW PLANTS

Carl Purdy, the well known scientist and plant breeder of Ukiah, passed through this city on the morning train Monday en route to his home from San Francisco, says the Santa Rosa Republican. For the past three weeks he has been in Southern California searching for rare plants and bulbs and was more than successful. He drove into the San Jacinto and the San Bernardino ranges as far as he could penetrate by wagon and then resorted to a pack mule to get into inaccessible portions of the mountains. During the coming week Mr. Purdy will depart for Oregon, where he will spend about a month searching for additional plants and bulbs in that vicinity.

Aged Lady Sick

Miss Geneva Lamb was called from her school at Noyo this week on account of the serious illness of her aunt, Mrs. A. H. Slingerland, of Potter valley. Mrs. Slingerland has been in poor health for some time and is 72 years old. It is thought that she cannot recover.

J. C. LANE FOR STATE OFFICE

Delegation From Mendocino Succeeds In Securing Recognition

The Democracy of Mendocino was alert while at Sacramento and succeeded in nominating John C. Lane, of this county, for the position of surveyor general. Mr. Lane is eminently qualified to fill the position and will make a strong run for the place. From present indications Bell will win in a landslide and naturally carry most of the ticket with him. The county is certainly to be congratulated upon having a Mendocino man on both tickets. The Republican delegates from this county placed Mr. Caughey on their ticket, so the Democratic delegates to the Sacramento convention wanted to do as well and succeeded in securing a place for Mr. Lane. The delegates that attended from this county were J. E. Pemberton, W. W. Ware, Maurice Hirsch, John Flanagan, D. H. Lawson, W. L. Dooley, Dr. J. S. Hogshead, John C. Lane. They also succeeded in securing the renomination of Senator J. B. Sanford by acclamation. So the delegation is to be congratulated upon its good work. W. W. Ware turned out to be quite an orator and was elected secretary of the district convention that nominated a railroad commissioner. He placed John Flanagan in nomination for this office but Mr. Flanagan declined to enter the contest. John C. Lane was also recognized by being placed on the platform committee. So it will be seen that the Mendocino delegation was recognized. J. E. Pemberton was elected a state committeeman from this county.

Attended Association Meeting

P. I. Lancaster returned from the bay counties last Friday and proceeded on to Willits. Mr. Lancaster is one of the committee that represents this county on the North of the Bay Counties Development Association and has been trying to boom the project along a little. The movement is one that merits encouragement and we trust that our various chambers of commerce will take hold of the matter with a vim and push northern California to the front.

FIRE DESTROYS GUALALA MILL

Point Arena, Sept. 16.—The Gualala mill was destroyed by fire last Thursday evening. The cook house, the round house and all the locomotives but one which, happened to be in the woods, were also destroyed. The cause of the fire is unknown. It was first discovered by the watchman about ten o'clock and was soon beyond control. The mill belonged to the Epmire Redwood company and was one of the most complete on the coast, having a capacity of 300,000 feet daily. The loss is estimated at $250,000. At the present time when there is such a demand for building materials the loss of the mill comes doubly hard. Three hundred men were employed by the company and these will be thrown out of their positions until a new equipment can be secured.

A few days previous to the fire the company was considering a proposition to sell the property. The sale was to have been consummated the next day. Considerable lumber was also destroyed.

Fire in Hop Kiln

Joe Cunningham's hop kiln narrowly escaped being destroyed by fire last Thursday evening. The sparks were discovered among the hops just in time to save the kiln. A few buckets of water which happened to be near at hand were the means of putting out the flames. It is thought that some hop picker thoubgtlessly dropped a bunch of matches in the sack and when placed on the kiln they were ignited.

W. A. BEARD FOR CONGRESS

An Able Man Selected To Succeed Present Incumbent

The second conrgessional convention at the Democratic state convention met in Sacramento last week and nominated W. A. Beard for congress.

He is a man of high moral character and has the respect and confidence of all who know him. For many years he was engaged in newspaper work, and for a long time was editor of the Oroville Mercury. For the past five years he has been engaged in promotion and development work. As secretary of the Sacramento Valley Delevopment Association he has been a conspicuous figure in exploiting the resources of the great valley and making them known in the east and abroad.

He has an extensive acquaintance throughout the congressional district, his duties having brought him into contact with the representative people of the entire northern and central portions of the state.

No man is more familiar with the needs of the district. He is and has always been a consistent advocate of irrigation, and did valuable service for Superior California in this connection.

It was largely due to his efforts that the Department of the Interior gave its aid and assistance to what is known as the Stony Creek project, which when completed will place thousands of acres in Glenn county under irrigation, and will form one of the units for the great system of irrigation for the Sacramento valley.

Beard went to Washington as the representative of the Orland Water User's Association, where by his own efforts he secured the endorsement of the project by Secretary Hitchcock of the Interior Department, and also the promise of Federal aid for it.

There is no one in the district better able to take Theodore Bell's place than W. A. Beard, for he is familiar with the great Sacramento valley and knows its needs better than almost any one else that could be named.

Almost every year he is sent to Washington to look after legislation affecting this district, so now the people will have an opportunity of sending the real article back there in the shape of W. A. Beard as congressman.

COAST COUPLE HAPPILY MARRIED

Albert James Switzer and Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Ryan, both of Fort Bragg, were united in marriage in this city on September 15 by Rev. G. D. B. Stewart of the Presbyterian church. The ceremony took place at the residence of W. D. L. Held. The young people are very popular in coast social circles and have the best wishes of a wide circle of friends. The Dispatch joins in extending congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Switzer left Sunday morning for a short visit with relatives. On their down trip the rice-strewn floor of the car heralded the presence of a bridal couple to their fellow passengers, to the keen delight of everybody but "Bud." They returned to Fort Bragg Thursday.

Death of L. W. Jackson

L. W. Jackson, who has been sick for a year or more, died in this city last Sunday at the age of 48 years. He was born in Ohio in 1858 and came to California when quite a young man. The funeral took place from the Methodist Episcopal church last Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the Eagles, of which organization the deceased was an honored member.

The Biggest Buck

I. C. Reed killed a large Pacific buck up at the home of his son on the McClendon ranch last Monday that weighed 131 pounds with the head off. Mr. Reed is over 80 years old and was elated over his success.

The Old Reliable

John Taylor the Democratic candidate for coroner and public administrator, announces his candidacy this week. Uncle John has held the office for eight years to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. Every estate that has come into his hands to settle up has received the same care and attention that one of his own relatives would have. No one in the whole length and breadth of the county can utter a word against the way in which the duties of this important office has been conducted and for that reason it is safe to say that the people will re-elect Uncle John by an increased majority. Reward the faithful servant by re-electing him.

A Republican Candidate

The card of W. S. Van Dyke, the Republican candidate for tax collector, appears in this issue of the Dispatch. Mr. Van Dyke is well and favorably known in the northern part of the county where he resides. He is out campaigning and is making an effort to be elected. He promises to give the county value received if elected to the position. He has the elements of a strong candidate and is doubtless the strongest man that his party could place against the present tax collector.

RETIRING OFFICER NEATLY REMEMBERED

Senator J. B. Sanford returned last week after an absence of two weeks. The first week of his absence he spent in San Jose presiding over the High Court convention of the Ancient Order of Foresters, of which he was the outgoing High Chief Ranger. Mr. Sanford was offered the position again, but declined as he had already held the position for four years. During his administration the order made a net gain of 15 per cent in funds and 15 per cent in membership despite the recent great calamity. Upon retiring from office the convention presented him with $350 as a testimonial of esteem for the good service rendered the order. J. Falconer, the secretary, was presented with $125, and a $125 gold watch as a token of esteem for his labors in behalf of the order. Those that attended the convention from this county were Dr. E. G. Case, a Past High Chief Ranger, T. E. Armstrong, of Hopland; N. P. Howe, of Point Arena; T. S. Wallace, of Mendocino; George Plowman, of Caspar; George Busch, of Potter valley.

TRAINS COLLIDE NEAR PETALUMA

The north bound train last Friday evening was delayed about five hours and did not arrive here until after one o'clock Saturday morning. The cause of the delay was a collision between a special train of hop pickers and the up freight. The engines of both trains were telescoped and it took several hours to clear the track so that the north bound passenger could get by. Several people were injured in the wreck but not seriously. At the order of the railroad company the Continental hotel, of Petaluma, served 500 sandwiches and ten gallons of coffee to the delayed passengers while at the Petaluma depot. A number of Ukiahites were among the delayed passengers.

Redwine Is Hustling

Guy Redwine, the young energetic Democratic nominee for surveyor, has been making votes in this vicnity this week. Guy is quite a hustler and is well acquainted as he attended school here a few years ago. He should be given a rousing majority as an encouragement to other young men to try to make something of themselves.

The Oldest Voter

Patrick Henry Hale is the oldest voter on the register this year. He was born in Ireland in 1802 and is 104 years old. He came to America when only 15 years old, and came to California in 1851 and has resided here ever since. He picked hops during most of the season and seems to be in good health.

The Union Lumber company's round house at Fort Bragg was destroyed by fire last Monday night. The exact cause of the fire is not known. One of the big oil burners was run out but three of them were in the fire, but can be repaired. The loss is quite serious, but it will be only a short time until all the repairs are made and every thing will be running as usual.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

How to Play Hop Over, a Jolly, Jumping Outdoor Game.

It is said a person must be "awfully old" not to enjoy this game.

Stand all the players in a ring, about two feet apart, except one player, who must stand in the center. He must hold one end of a long, strong string. To the other end tie a book or any other article of similar shape and weight, wrapped up in paper.

Now the player in the center must whirl the parcel around and around the circle on the floor. The game is that any one whose feet are touched by the parcel or the string must be "it" and take his place in the center. Consequently, in order to escape this awful penalty, every player must jump over the parcel or string whenever it comes around his way.

Of course the book is whirled around faster and faster every time, so you can imagine the lively jumping that goes on. And woe to the slow one! For it is likely that the string or parcel will not merely touch his feet, but wind round and round his ankles, making him a hopeless prisoner.

Try this game, boys and girls. It is a jolly one for out of doors.

Game of Fly Feather.

This is an old English amusement, described by Mrs. Burton Kingsland, which affords lots of fun. The players put their chairs together to form a close circle. A small downy feather with a very short stem is procured and thrown as high as possible in the air. It is then blown, the object of each player being not to be touched by it. The person it falls upon pays a forfeit, and this is redeemed at the end of the game.

It must not be blown too violently or it will fly so high that it will be difficult to reach, and the one who blows it outside the circle must also pay a forfeit.

When children play it they usually prefer to dance around in pursuit of it, but they must not let go each other's hands to catch it in its descent. The player who goes through three rounds without being touched wins the game.

A Bloodthirsty Marshal.

The marshal of Hamilton, Mont., evidently does not intend to let the place go to the dogs. The Western News of Hamilton prints the following notice, which should be effective:

TAKE NOTICE.

All persons owning dogs and who do not pay dog tax on the same by the 15th of July will be killed.

JAMES HIGGINS, Marshal

RICHARD BURBAGE.

He Was a Great Actor and Shakespeare's Leading Star.

March 16, 1618 or 1619, Richard Burbage, player, died at Shoreditch, London.

The first of the great English tragic actors, Burbage was in every way worthy to head the long roll of England's famous players. The son of an actor, the friend and companion of Shakespeare, it was through him that many of the heroes of the dramatist first spoke to the eager playgoers who thronged the Globe theater. He was the original of Romeo, Hamlet, Lear, Othello, Macbeth, Shylock, Richard III, and many other of Shakespeare's leading characters, and his name stands next to that of the great poet in the licenses for acting granted by James I. in 1603 to the company of the Globe theater.

His powers as an actor were not his only claim to distinction, for he was also a successful painter. The fame of his abilities held a prominent place in theatrical tradition for many years, a poem in his honor, dedicated to one of the great players of the day, being written as late as the time of Charles II.

His death, which was probably the result of paralysis, caused the poets to turn their thoughts to his successful career, and it is from the numerous elegies then written that most of the information concerning him must be gathered. Few players have ever had the good fortune to be so well liked by the dramatists of their time, and all praised him, one even lamenting that his death "hath made a visible eclipse of playing."

A shrewd, careful man in his business affairs, Burbage left an estate producing a yearly income of £300, a large sum for a player in those days to bequeath to his heirs. Beloved and respected by all, he survived his great master by only a few years, his grave bearing the simple, expressive epitaph, "Exit Burbage." — London Saturday Review.

Madrid's Throne Room.

The throne room of the royal palace at Madrid is one of the most magnificent in the world. Decorated in red and gold, it contains rock crystal chandeliers, colossal looking glasses of the finest quality, marble tables and priceless porphyry. The ceiling is painted by Tiepolo with the "Majesty of Spain," in illustration of the virtue of the kings and the manliness of the people, who are represented in the different costumes of the provinces. Here the sovereigns of Spain receive on grand occasions when alive and when dead are laid out in state.

Women Sailors.

Women sailors are employed in Denmark, Norway and Finland and are often found to be excellent mariners. In Denmark several women are employed as state officials at sea, and particularly in the pilot service. They go out to meet the incoming ships; they climb nimbly out of their boats; they show their official diploma, and they steer the newcomer safely into the harbor. It is the same in Finland.

The New Line of KUPPENHEIMER Suits and Overcoats Arrived

They Are Wonders

WHEN we say the new Fall and Winter Kuppenheimer Suits and Overcoats are "wonders" we mean just what we say.

You will be just as enthusiastic over them as we are when you see the line--when you try a coat on.

It's the snappiest line you ever looked at in all your life.

It needs no salesman to sell the new Kuppenheimer clothes. A try-on means a sale.

You will also say "wonderful" when you see our prices on them. We will show you a Kuppenheimer Suit for $10 and $12.50 that will open your eyes.

Remember that the styles for Fall are different from those of last spring. It takes a Tailor with a big T to make a coat now that is the proper style.

Young men are especially invited to call and see the new Kuppenheimers, as it's the young men as a rule that appreciate stylish and perfect-fitting clothes.

In Memory of John Cunningham

"Of comfort let no man speak, lets talk of graves, of Toombs and epitaphs, make dust our paper, and
With rainy eyes, write sorrow on the bosom of
The earth, where good men's lives expire before
The flowers in their caps die, or ere they sicken."
—Shakespere.

The following lines are dedicated to the memory of the late lamented John Ignatius Cunningham, and were in part composed over his grave:

John Cunningham is dead, God rest his soul I pray,
And deeply grieved so many a soul shall say;
And many a friend in pain shall draw his breath,
For him so loved, led lowly down to death.

Man's life is short, 'tis but a brittle span,
Some chance or accident may foil his plan,
And as he falls, so like a falling star,
Which first illumines, fades and dies afar.

My dear dead friend, what needs my praise of thee?
Sure thou shall live long in men's memory.
Thy youth gave proof to manhood long and well,
And all the country round thy merits tell.

When last I met thee at the holy mass,
Before the cross thy bended knees were cast.
I did not think my eyes could gaze so soon
On this, alas! thy sad lamented tomb.

And here beside thy parents sleeping well,
Friends lay thee 'neath thy native soil to dwell,
'Midst solemn prayers, blessed water, tears and flowers are strewn,
And o're thy manly breast may roses bloom.

Weep, loved ones, weep; tears are the balm of grief;
And pray to heaven for the souls relief.
Dear widowed wife, endure, be calm and try
To think how John knew God from infancy.

"He knew Him, loved Him and served Him in this world, the test,
To be happy with Him forever in the next."
This was thy husband's creed, and men shall say,
Happy the soul who from his youth did pray.

Farewell, a long farewell, dear heart of thine,
This somber scene in grief my tears confine,
I'll leave thee now, this sorrowful grave shall be
A sad and long remembrance to me.

And when the sun goes down, I'll dream of him I knew,
Whose life was graceful, noble, kind and true;
Whose visage God impressed, 'ere birth began,
"To give the world assurance of a man."

J. L. Estes and two daughters, Mina and Frances, came over from Boonville yesterday to consult a physician, Miss Frances having been in poor health for some time.

L. Banks, one of Hopland's prominent young men, was up to the county seat yesterday on business. He reports hop picking about completed and a large output in that valley.

SOME POINTERS FROM LAYTONVILLE

Laytonville, Sept. 20.—D. Nyhen is kept busy these days doing the blacksmithing for this community.

Johnny Williams is moving from the Cahto ranch to the Grubb place. He was on the Cahto ranch for several years and made a neat little stake before leaving.

J. N. White has been busy hauling hay from the Beal ranch to the station.

Andrew Haun is stepping pretty high these days. It is a girl and he thinks she cannot be beat for good looks. She resembles her mother.

The Vasser boys have finished threashing. The yield was exceptionally good.

Francis Vasser and family have returned from Santa Rosa. We are glad to welcome them to our community once more, and hope they will stay this time.

Politics is the all absorbing topic of conversation. The interest seems to center in the clerkship. Barbee certainly has the best of it here by long odds. We have been voting for McCowen as long as we can remember. As he doesn't know when to quit we will have to tell him. He has't been here yet and it will do him no good to come. His plea, "just help me one more term," will avail him nothing for it is the same old song he sings every campaign, and the people have not forgotten it.

It looks as though Bob Duncan will get all the votes. Well, he deserves them for he has been a terror to evil doers.

PIANO EXPERIMENTS.

Playing by Sweeping the Strings With a Feather.

Open wide your piano so that the wires are exposed. Over the wires place sheets of music, and when you strike a tone you will find that it has a rattling sound. If now you play a tune in the same manner, with the sheets of music still lying on the strings, it will sound as if the instrument were a banjo. Anyhow, it is a good imitation.

Now remove the music sheets and press down gently, but firmly, the keys belonging to any cord. Take the simple cord C, E, G, for example. The keys must be pressed down without sounding them and held down while some one gently brushes the strings with a feather or a straw. The effect will be as if the cord were played far away and is heard by you as very soft tones.

Change the cord, always pressing down the keys without sounding them while the feather still sweeps the strings lightly. In this way you may modulate or play a slow piece, and the effect will be very beautiful, indeed, as if heard from a great distance.

The reason of this is that ordinarily a damper rests against each string but when the corresponding key is struck or pressed down the damper is raised. In sweeping the strings with the feather, lightly, only the strings that are undampered sound, the others being held mute by the dampers, but if the touch of the feather is too heavy even the other strings may sound, so your care must be in making a light and delicate touch.

Now press down a key gently and hold it. Strike very hard the octave above this key, but do not hold it after striking the tone. When the wire of the tone struck has been sufficiently dampered, so that it does not sound so loud, the pressed down key will be heard to "sing" clearly, even though it was not struck. This is because every note struck is composed of several notes, being in reality a cord in itself, and each note contained in that cord causes the corresponding note in the keyboard to vibrate, or "sing," in sympathy if held down in like manner.

The other notes that will sound under these conditions will always be the fifth above the octave, the second octave and the third and fifth above that, and these tones that sound are called "overtones."

For illustration, if C in the lower part of the piano be struck, any or all of the notes that follow will sound if their keys are first pressed and held down.—Philadelphia Press.

The Fact of It.

"It's love that makes the world go 'round," said the old fashioned sentimentalist.

"No," answered Miss Cayenne; "it merely makes some people so dizzy that they think the world is going 'round."—Washington Star.

The dawn of the future is announced to such as can read its signs, and we owe ourselves wholly to it.—Mazzini.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

When you are all done but finishing, you are just half done.

If you have time to boast about being worked to death, you have not much to do.

Some people are so unfortunate that their troubles make people laugh instead of cry.

A man who underestimates himself may be tiresome, but he is not a circumstance to the man who brags.

People may disdain a compliment, but they feel a tender little spot in them where it hit and refused to be dislodged.

It is a theory growing in conviction that the man who says a mean thing about another isn't as mean as the man who carries it.

The man who travels over the path behind you wisely looks at your footprints and sees where you could have avoided many a pitfall.—Atchison Globe.

Tiny Trees.

The midget of the whole tree family is the Greenland birch. It is a perfect tree in every sense of that term and lives its allotted number of years from 75 to 130 just as other species of the great birch family do, although its height under the most favorable conditions seldom exceeds ten inches. Whole bluffs of the east and southeast coast of Greenland are covered with "thickets" of this diminutive species of woody plant, and in many places where the soil is uncommonly poor and frozen from eight to ten months a year a "forest" of these trees will flourish for half a century without growing to a height exceeding four inches.

Strange Dances.

Queensland's government aboriginal settlement on Frazer's island holds a weekly dance for the blacks. Among the bundles of old clothes sent to the settlement there are often ball gowns, so the gins sport decollete dresses. Neither sex wears boots. The sexes have to dance separately.—Sydney Bulletin.

Shrewd Guess.

Senior Partner—We must be careful not to give Billings any more credit. He's evidently losing money. Junior Partner—How do you know? Senior Partner—I heard his remark today that "life is full of ups and downs." No man ever admits that until he begins to strike the down.—Philadelphia Press.

Rejected.

"I have called," said the confident young man, with a manuscript sticking out of his pocket, "to see whether there is a vacancy in this office."

"No," replied the melancholy editor as he looked round the place; "I'm sorry to say there is none. Even the waste paper basket is full."

A Change.

"Well, well! There goes Miss Strong. When I saw her last she was posing as a bachelor girl. That's her hobby."

"All that's changed now. She dropped her hobby for a hubby."—Exchange.

CONNELLEY LIQUOR CURE

505 Telegraph Ave., Cor. Hobart St. Oakland, Cal.

NORTHERN MENDOCINO

Covelo, Sept. 16.—Death has again entered our midst and taken one of our best citizens, Frank Hauck. The primary cause of his death was a kick received from a mule six weeks ago when three of his ribs were broken and he was injured internally. He has been in poor health for several years before the injury and was not strong enough to pull through. He was 46 years old and had lived in this community for about 20 years. He leaves a widow and four children, the oldest of which is five years of age, to mourn his untimely end. Frank Hauck was a good citizen and was well educated and he will be greatly missed in the communtiy.

J. C. Eembray, of Oakland, died here last week at the age of 22 years. The cause of death was consumption. He came here about a month ago for his health and was stopping with S. E. Gettis on North Eel river. The remains were shipped to Oakland for interment.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hagne on September 5th.

Sanford Redwine and Harry Palmer met with an accident recently while coming down the ferry grade with a string of five vehicles for Ed Purcell. The brake broke and rigs and men all piled up together. Redwine is now getting around with the assistance of crutches.

Phil Robbin's house at Poonkinney was destroyed by fire last week together with its contents. No one was at home and the cause of the fire is not known.

M. A. Thomas, the present able assessor, has been interviewing the voters and from what we can hear is going to get a good vote despite the fact that his opponent used to live here. His opponent is also here hustling.

The nomination of Bell for governor and Sanford for senator will aid the Democratic ticket as both are strong with the laboring men. The strongest man on either ticket is Bob Duncan, the fearless district attorney. The entire ticket is satisfactory to the voters of this part of the county, however.

IT WORKED BOTH WAYS.

When some of the newspapers were printing funny stories about William Loeb, private secretary to President Roosevelt, during the last campaign, alleging that he was the "champion blame taker in America," because he was always so willing to assume responsibility for anything that went wrong at the White House, Mr. Loeb laughed with the very men who wrote the yarns.

But one day his patience was taxed. The president's train had been delayed seven hours between Philadelphia and New York while he was going to Oyster Bay. Next morning one of the New York dailies had these flaming headlines, "President's Train Water Bound—Loeb Not to Blame."

"See here, boys," said the secretary next morning at Oyster Bay, "that's going too far."

"Very well," said the reporter who had written the story, "I'll correct it tomorrow and say you were to blame."—Success Magazine.

Three Jurors Cured

Mr. G. W. Fowler, of Blightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury on a murder case at Edwardsville, Alabama. He says: "While there I ate some fresh meat and some souse meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I never was more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Cholic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead, saying that he had what I sent for but that this medicine was so much better that he would rather send it to me in the fix that I was in. I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." NEWSY ITEMS FROM WILLITS

Willits, Sept. 17.—Politics are in a bad muddle here and the outcome is problematical. Many of the G.O.P. adherents are openly outspoken against the raw work in forcing the railroad program through at Santa Cruz and nominating that enemy of labor J. N. Gillett. Editor Pennington, for many years a staunch Republican, thinks the Santa Cruz affair was about as raw as the Ukiah boss convention that put the local Reublican ticket in the field a month ago. Pennington will not support the Gillett ticket.

Democrats here are jubilant over the nomination of Bell and think that the county is now safely in the Democratic column. Bell is certainly his own boss and is brave and fearless. The recognition of the Mendocino Democracy in the nomination of John C. Lane for surveyor general is also pleasing. We notice that Senator Sanford will again make the race for senator from this district. He will run strong where there are any laboring men at work. He taught school here once and will stand all right in this precinct.

J. A. Gould, while working on the Whited skating rink, ran a rusty nail in his foot and is now navigating with the assistance of a pair of crutches.

Conductor Al Hawkins was badly scalded last week due to an error on the part of one of the train men in failing to shut off the injector. His breast and right arm were severely burned.

Louie Felton, Vane Rogers, Tom Hall and Myron DeCamp have returned from a hunting trip on the head waters of Tomki and report a fine time.

Wm. Long, of Healdsburg, and Miss Myrtle Grace Gibson were united in marriage last Sunday week by Judge Pennington. The young people are quite popular in social circles and were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents.

Zena Ferris and Miss Jesse Roesch were also married last week by the accommodating Judge. The couple will make their home in Sherwood in future.

At the last regular meeting of the local Aerie of Eagles J. A. Joyce was installed as president, and C. F. Vincent as vice-president. This order is now one of the strongest in the community and has 125 members.

Guy Redwine was here last week in the interest of his candidacy for county surveyor. If he runs as well elsewhere as he will here there will be no question about his election.

Time and Eternity.

The stream of time never runs dry, and the ocean of eternity will forever send its mighty surges mountain high against the bank of time's little stream, sweeping with each receding billow over its expansive bosom the frail human craft from the shore of time, with earth's happiness, human affection, toil, trials, tears and sin, to the eternal shore of celestial beauty and bliss. Oh, mighty ocean of eternity, your wonderful anthem of life and death brings eternal woe and condemnation to him who is untrue to himself and his divine pilot, but to the trusting, faithful man it sings of endless felicity in the presence of time who has redeemed his people from the bondage of sin and has swept them through the pearly gates.—Bucktown (Penna.) Gazette.

The Wonderful Diatoms.

One of the most wonderful things in vegetable life is a beautiful and minute class of seaweeds called diatoms. They belong to the seaweed family, yet they may be found by the thousands in any roadside ditch, fresh or salt water lake or even in cisterns, wells, springs, etc. Most species of plants are made up of an infinite number of little cells, but with the diatom it is otherwise. Each representative of this wonderful family of plants is formed of but a single cell and this so minute that it would require 2,500 of the most common form, laid end to end, to make a string an inch in length Some species of diatoms have the power of independent motion, and on that account were for some time believed to be animals.

Candy and the Flag.

The following is accredited to the late Senator Hoar: At a Fourth of July celebration in a Canadian town where both English and American guests were assembled the flags of the two countries were used in decorations. A frivolous young English girl, loyal to the queen, but with no love for the stars and stripes, exclaimed: "Oh, what a silly looking thing the American flag is! It suggests nothing but checkerberry candy." "Yes," replied Senator Hoar, "the kind of candy that has made everybody sick who ever tried to lick it."

Charity.

Charity is a universal duty which it is in every man's power sometimes to practice, since every degree of assistance given to another upon proper motives is an act of charity, and there is scarcely any man in such a state of imbecility as that he may not, on some occasions, benefit his neighbor.

MIDDLE COST HPPENINGS

Mendocino, Sept. 17.—John Flanagan has returned from the Democratic state convention and is much enthused over the prospects of success of the party this fall. He thinks that Theodore A. Bell is a sure winner for governor and a number of good Republicans coincide with his views of the situation. The laboring men of the state will certainly throw off corporation and boss rule and vote for Bell. The working men of the coast are pleased to learn that Senator Sanford has been renominated by a unanimous vote for senator again. He certainly has done more for the laboring class than any other man that has ever been in the state legislature and the boys will remember him on election day.

Politics is the absorbing topic of conversation every where and the people of the coasto are glad to learn that John C. Lane has been nominated for surveyor general by the Sacramento convention. He will poll a big vote on the coast. While we are democratic we are in favor of giving both the Democratic and Republican candidates on the two state tickets a big vote.

Why should we not have a little county pride? Let every one in the county come up and support our own men. We may want a little favor done at Sacramento some time and a Mendocino county resident will be glad to do it regardless of his politics.

It is stated that J. C. Halliday, the Point Arena stage man, is considering the proposition of putting on an auto stage line, and Fort Bragg parties are thinking of connecting with the same at Greenwood.

Miss Stella Garvin had the misfortune to sprain her ankle one day last week.

According to reports from Vancouver some old time Mendocinoites have formed a lumber company up there and are doing well. The incorporators are Ed Bouton, Fred Perkins and George D. Young, and their place of business is Vancouver, near Portland, a splendid market.

THE GNU IS A PUZZLE

It Seems to Be a Cross Between the Horse, Cow and Deer.

Did you ever hear of a horned horse? It is called the gnu and is a native of South Africa. The gnu is a puzzle. We have called it a horse, but it is more like a cow. It really seems to be a cross between the horse, the cow and the deer. It has the head and horns of a cow, the tail, the mane and withers of the horse and the legs of a deer. Altogether the gnu is one of the most singular creatures on earth.

The gnu inhabits the hilly districts of South Africa, roaming all over the country in vast herds. As far as travelers have yet penetrated it is found, and it is fortunate that it is so, for the flesh of the gnu forms excellent food They are, however, extremely wild and, being very quick in their movements, are difficult to shoot. Upon the first alarm the whole herd scamper away in single file, following a leader. When seen from a distance they look like a troop of horses.

Their speed is very great, and when first disturbed they do not exert it, but kick out their heels and begin butting at anything that comes in their way, exhibiting the greatest fury. Unless hard pressed they seldom show fight, but when brought to bay they will defend themselves desperately. They dart forward upon their enemy with great fury, and unless he remains cool and collected he probably will not escape.

A Ghost Story.

Under the date of March 6, 1806, the Annual Register tells how a butcher of Stretford, in Lancashire, had disappeared during a then recent flood and how rumors spread that an apparition had been seen near a certain local pool of water. Some gave it the form of an uncanny dog, others that of an equally mysterious man who uttered blood curdling yells, and it was told that, even when nothing was seen, cattle refused to drink at the pond, and horses trembled as they passed it. At last a town meeting decided to pump the pool dry. It was done, and there, sure enough, was the butcher.—London Chronicle.

Soluble Glass.

Soluble glass, or water glass, as it is sometimes called, is an artificial silicate of sodium or potassium or a double silicate of both of these alkalis, and thus in its essential ingredients the same as ordinary glass. But ordinary glass is to a slight extent soluble in water, owing to the alkali which it contains, and by varying the proportion of the alkaline constituents the compound becomes readily soluble to any desired degree. Attention was first directed to it by Fuchs, a German chemist, about 1824. It has been used to some extent, and quite successfully, in preventing the decay of stone walls and edifices under the action of the weather. The surface is covered with a coating of a suitable solution, and, the water soon evaporating, a thin, transparent glaze is left over the stone, effectually protecting it from the disintegrating action of the atmosphere. Several public buildings in various parts of the world have been successfully treated in this way.

POINT ARENA AND VICINITY

Point Arena, Sept. 17.—The nomination of Theodore A. Bell by the Democrats has greatly encouraged the people of this section of the state, who are tired of boss rule and want a decent administration of the affairs without corporation control. The Republican majority will not be so large here this fall.

Laboring men on the coast are elated to see their old friend J. B. Sanford again on the ticket as nominee for the state senate. While a member of the legislature J. B. has always voted for every bill that was in the interest of labor and the working men will see to it that he gets a good vote on the coast.

Ed Wright, the best tax collector this county ever had, was doing some hustling in this vicinity last week. He will run far ahead of his party ticket here, and he should too, as an encouragement to others to try and give efficient service.

Joe Antrim, of this burg, has purchased the Basham store at Boonville and moved over there last week. We are sorry to lose him but wish him success in his new field of labor.

Mrs. Ed Hunt, formerly of this town, died in Petaluma last week. She leaves a husband and nine daughters to mourn her loss. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of many friends in this community.

Mrs. Henry Sherriff died at her home on the Garcia last week at the age of 66 years. The interment took place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

The Misses Gaines gave a swell party one evening last week in honor of Miss Olga Brown, of Portland, Oregon, who has been visiting the young ladies for a few weeks.

THEIR WEAK POINTS.

The Fears and Superstitions of Some Famous Men.

All great people have had their foibles, which is another way of saying that all have their weak points. Dr. Johnson, with all his philosophy, was not without a superstition. He was very careful not to enter a room with his left foot foremost. If by any chance he did so he would immediately step back and re-enter with his right foot foremost. He was terribly afraid of death, too, and would not suffer it to be mentioned in his presence.

Julius Caesar, to whom the shouts of thousands of the enemy were but sweet music, was mortally afraid of the sound of thunder and always wanted to get underground to escape the dreadful noise.

Marshal Saxe, who loved to look upon the ranks of opposing armies, fled and screamed in terror at the sight of a cat.

Peter the Great could scarcely be persuaded to cross a bridge, and whenever he placed his foot on one he would cry out with fear. Like the great man he was, he tried to overcome his weakness, but he was never able to do so. And Byron would never help any one to salt at table, nor would he be helped himself, and if any salt were spilled he would immediately get up and leave.

The Mosquito's Sting

The mosquito's eating apparatus consists of a lancet, inclosed in a sheath, somewhat on the principle of the instrument used by physicians. Connected with this there is an injector for throwing into the wound a subtle poison, which thins the blood, after which the fluid is drawn up by a pump and swallowed by the mosquito. Altogether the mandible of the mosquito is a singularly complicated mechanism and well repays microscopic study.

Paint Smell Removed

The smell of paint, which is so injurious to health, is easily removed from a room by standing in it a pail of cold water containing a large handful of hay or a cut up onion or two. The water alone would answer the purpose, but not so quickly as with the addition of the hay or onions. Leave the pail in the room for some hours, and then if the painty smell still lingers throw away its contents, fill it as before and leave it again to finish its work.

Delicate Lace Collars.

Do not wash these. Sew them carefully on to pieces of white cotton cloth and dip into a little benzine. Squeeze out into the hand once or twice and dry in a towel. Then put them out in the air to let the smell evaporate. When quite free of this iron carefully. Then remove from the calico.

Care of Brass Bedsteads.

Brass bedsteads should be dusted with a soft cloth every day, and if the brass looks soiled rub it with a cloth slightly moistened with sweet oil and then polish it with a chamois leather.

Antirust Paint For Iron.

Good varnish with enough red lead ground in oil to make it work like paint. The less rust there is on the iron to start with the better satisfaction you will have.

The Democratic State Convention

The Democratic convention which convened in Sacramento last week was the most enthusiastic one that ever met in the history of the state of California. The subserviency of the Santa Cruz Republican convention to corporation control and boss rule caused the people of the state to turn to the Democracy for relief. And they have not been disappointed, for the Democracy has dealt bossism a death knell blow by nominating Hon. Theodore A. Bell for governor by acclamation. Mr. Bell was not a candidate for the position, but recent events had made him the logical candidate of the people regardless of politics. Between the time of the adjournment of the boss ridden convention at Santa Cruz and the convening of the Democratic convention Mr. Bell had received hundreds of telegrams from man, prominent Republicans and honest labor leaders who objected to the selling out of their party at Santa Cruz, imploring him to accept the Democratic nomination and promising him their earnest support.

Mr. Bell had promised Senator Diggs that he would not be a candidate as long as Mr. Diggs was a candidate. When the Senator saw that the sentiment was in favor of Bell he gracefully withdrew in favor of Mr. Bell thus making the latter's nomination unanimous. Six days before the convention met W. H. Langdon withdrew from the Democratic party and joined Hearst's party—the Independence League—and then expected a party that had been in existence 125 years to go out of business and be swallowed up by a one man organization that was created for the sole purpose of advancing the political interests of W. R. Hearst and encompassing the defeat of America's greatest living statesman, William Jennings Bryan. As Mr. Langdon refused to support the Democratic candidate unless it happened to be himself, he was no longer considered as a possibility. Personally Mr. Langdon is a very decent fellow, and we are at a loss to understand why he should leave the party until after the convention had met and adopted its platform. If its platform was not in accord with his ideas and failed to take a bold stand for the rights of the people then he would be justified in leaving it. But the Democratic platform goes further in the cause of the people than the platform of the Independence League, hence the real object of the League is now apparent to all.

The cry raised by some newspapers that the convention was controlled by Boss McNab is the veriest rot. There was no program in evidence and the only contest was for chairman, which was simply a friendly contest for the honor between two personal friends. The convention was unanimous and was determined to smash political machines and corporation boss rule control in California. It has certainly succeeded for it has nominated for governor the best friend the people of California has ever had—Theodore A. Bell.

The scene in the convention almost equalled that of a national convention. Bell was carried to the platform on the shoulders of a dozen men, and placed on the platform and was cheered for ten minutes. He then made the bravest speech that has ever been made in the state since the time Stephen M. White made his celebrated defy at San Jose in 1890. He showed himself to be a man among men and made thousands of friends by the brave stand he took against Herrin, Hearst and all the other boses. The speech will live in history and the people will rise up in their power and elect Theodore A. Bell the next governor of California.

It is with more than ordinary satisfaction that the Sun falls in line to support the candidate for the state senate, Hon. J. B. Sanford, of the fourth senatorial district. He is a citizen of worth and ability and will do all he can to make the laws of the whole state good and efficient. He is a Democrat and a good and efficient one. He is of the class that has been tried and have not been found wanting.—Colusa Sun.

No one seems to deny the fact that Gillett is a good fellow, but men are to be judged largely by the company they keep, and those with whom Gillett has been training are enough to damn even the best of men.—Tulare Advance.

J. B. Sanford, this district's representative as state senator for two terms, will again lead on to victory. The way that Senator Sanford will trim President Roosevelt's brother-in-law, Hammond, of Lake, will be a wonder.—Willows Journal.

Plain Words From a Sincere Man to the People of the State of California

Theodore A. Bell States the Issue Most Explicitly—No Bended Knee to Herrin or Hearst—Railroad Monopoly Must Not Check State Development—Hearst No True Friend to Labor—No Quarter to Be Asked or Given.

To the People of the State of California:

A great responsibility has been placed in my hands by the action of the convention, but it has come in a manner that places me in a clear light before the people of California.

The paramount quetsion is: Shall the people be permitted to participate in the selection of public servants, or shall that prerogative be insolently seized and exercised by the political boss. If once we surrender government to any political machine, we yield up what it has taken centuries to win. For after all, is not self-government the thing that men have always battled for and desired, the most precious of all human rights?

The Democratic party would have been false to every profession it has ever made if it had failed to draw this issue sharp and clear, and range itself on the side of the people. We were called upon to make good our oft repeated declaration that we are influenced only by considerations of the common welfare. Had we failed to take a firm stand for good government and a square deal, we would have justly forfeited the respect of decent men.

The people of this state expected the Democratic state convention to do something. It has been done, and in my judgment it will be ratified at the polls. I cannot believe that the electors of California will set their seal of approval upon the political vandalism that controlled the Santa Cruz convention.

Emancipation from machine politics and boss rule must be the slogan in this camaign—emancipation from Herrin who defiled the Republican party of California, by seizing its machinery away from the rank and file of that party; and emancipation from Hearst, who would use the Democratic party for his own selfish adancement, or destroy it in the attempt.

The young men of California should be honorably encouraged to participate in the political movements of the time; they owe it to the state and nation to lend their influene to the shaping of politial ends, in order that pure government may be assured. It is the duty of every good citizen to take a part in politics and not permit the state to pass into the hands of political machines and bosses.

But I can well see how men will besitate, and particularly young men, to interest themselves in political affairs, when upon the one hand they must bend the knee to Herrin or, upon the other, to Hearst.

If the Herrin machine wins this year, it will perpetuate itself in power; its control will be so despotic that few young men with honorabe political ambition will dare to oppose it.

Of course there is no danger of Hearst's dream being realized, and it doesn't possess enough strength to be termed a serious menace. But it will be to the everlasting credit of California if it shall succeed in destroying the evil domination of the one and the reckless pretensions of the other.

If such forces as these are permitted to mould the destinies of California, God pity us!

The future greatness of California will depend:

Firstly—Upon the development of the valley and mountain communities through the building of new railroads—both steam and electric. It will be suicidal to turn the state over to a Southern Pacific monopoly, which will, through pure and unmitigated selfishness, obstruct, delay, and if possible, defeat every effort to secure greater facilities for transportation and competition rates.

Nor can we afford to place in the hands of the Southern Pacific or any other railroad monopoly, the power to render the navigable rivers of California no longer the rate regulators of the two great valleys of Califorina.

Secondly—California's future depends very largely upon harmonious relations between the employer and the employed.

Hearst is not a true friend to the laboring man, but the agitator ceaselessly seeking to elevate himself at the expense of the wage earner.

Organized labor cannot afford to abandon the high ground on which it stands to become the plaything of any man.

I have an abiding faith in the high aims and purposes of organized labor the main object of which is to secure to those who create the wealth of the country their just proportion of what they produce. But this end is defeated whenever the working man is taught to regard his employer as his enemy, and the employer persuaded to abandon his confidence in workmen.

An intelligent appreciation of the cordial relations that ought to exist between the two has never seemed to dawn upon the mind of Hearst.

Therefore, so long as he stands with a club in hand to beat both classes into resentment and hatred to each other, he stands a menace to California's progress, and should be made to feel that the people will not indorse his position.

For this reason I have drawn a line and neither Hearst nor Herrin shall stand on my side of it. I shall bend every energy to eliminate these two men from California politics, and I believe the people will help me do it. No quarter shall be asked or given.

If elected governor I shall endeavor to give California a good, clean, economical administration for four years. I shall execute the laws without fear or favor.

I shall be free and independent, and whatever strength of mind and heart that God has given me will be devoted to my state.

THEODORE A. BELL.

Sacramento, September 13th.

Some of our Lake county Republican contemporaries, in their anxiety to make it appear that the Dispatch is "knocking" their candidate for superintendent of schools, entirely overlook the only point the Dispatch tried to bring out. It should be understood that the Dispatch is well satisfied whenever Republicans either endorse a Democrat or select one for their candidate. The Dispacth is entirely too gallant to say anything against the lady, even were it possible, and her politics is allright, as was intimated before.

The Republican county convention was boss ridden, the Republican state convention was controlled by the worst element in the party. The only relief for the rank and file is to support Bell and get a square deal.

Governor Pardee has made the best Republican governor California ever had. The Santa Cruz boss convention endorsed his administration, and then turned him down. He, in a statement, said that his administration was not satisfactory to Herrin and Ruef. It was eminently satisfactory to the rank and file of the party, however, and if a Direct Nominating Primary Law had been in vogue Pardee would have beaten Gillett over 40,000 majority. The way to smash the machine and deal bossism a death blow is to vote for Theodore Bell for governor.

Hearst's Independence League is considered a joke. Last week a League rally was held in Oakland and the Examiner devoted three columns to a description of the "unrepressed enthusiasm." By actual count there were twenty-seven men, three boys and one woman present, according to the Call. The Examiner has not supported a Democratic candidate since Budd ran in 1894, so it is far better for Hearst's influence to go to his bob-tailed party than to go to the Republican party as it has in the last three campaigns.

The dirty slur cast on John C. Lane by a Hard Times contemporary this week shows the editor of that sheet up in his true light. John C. Lane was a candidate for surveyor general and with the assistance of the Mendocino delegation landed the nomination. Every man in Mendocino county was glad to see the county thus honored by having a nominee on the ticket, except the editor of the Times. Every one was glad to see Mr. Caughey placed on the Republican ticket, and when Mr. Lane was thus honored by the Democracy every one felt that Mendocino had prominent men in each of the two parties that were high in the councils of their respective parties. And the contemptible little fling will not injure John Lane as much as it will the editor of the Times who has shown himself to be too narrow to live in a progressive community.

BELL ENDORSED BY UNION LABOR

Union Labor of California last night indorsed Theodore A. Bell for governor. Four hundred delegates from every part of the state swept away the feeble opposition interposed by Abe Ruef and Mayor Schmitz and demanded Bell with but one dissenting voice. Tom Egan's was that lone voice. Egan was there for Ruef and Schmitz, who had agreed with the manipulators at Santa Cruz to do every thing possible to hold labor away from Bell, but though he talked himself hoarse, he found that the body of delegates would not hear of anyone but Bell.

The endorsement of the Democratic nominee was marked by wild enthusiasm, and when Bell was bought into the hall and introduced for a speech of acceptance the hundreds of delegates jumped upon their chairs and cheered for five minutes.—The Bulletin.

Canning Snap Beans.

Take fresh snap beans, string and cut them as if for immediate use. Put a layer of the uncooked beans in the bottom of a crock and sprinkle over them a half cup of salt. Add another layer of beans, then more salt, until the jar is filled, having the salt at the top. Cover air tight. These will keep all winter and taste almost as well as fresh ones in the spring. When ready to use, take some of the beans and soak overnight to get off the superfluous salt. Cook like fresh beans.

Washing Lace Gloves.

Lace or silk gloves should be washed on the hands in tepid water and afterward rinsed in several clear tepid waters while still on the hand. Do not pass the soap through the hands, but always use the sudded water. A drop or two of ammonia in the second and last rinsing waters will prevent the gloves from becoming yellow. These washable gloves should be allowed to dry on the hands. If removed while only partly dry they will stretch out of shape.
